Tengku Zafrul said direct negotiations are allowed based on procurement process which meets one or more of the following requirements:

1. Procurement for supply and services which involve an urgent necessity such that if the procurement is not implemented immediately, it can jeopardise and affect services as well as the nation's interest;
2. Standardisation needs to ensure compatibility between existing goods and goods to be procured;
3. One source of supply or service, that is, production of product or provision of service can only be supplied from only one source;
4. Security/strategic which involves procurement for items or services for the sake of the country's security and strategic interest; or

5. Contract with Bumiputera manufacturer that meets all conditions.
